AN OCTOBER SESSION

Gentle Folk of the most refined Erascible Sam & Folly Club, (or some of you like that):

Dust off your imaginations, stretch out for that dangerous game of croquet, and join us for a Saturday afternoon SEI session! This afternoon event begins activities for this next academic year and will happen at the Royal Oaks Country Club.

Activities will include a typical SEI blend of interesting conversation, an exploration of short Scripture passages, strategic gaming of the outdoor kind, and other things some young "old Shakespearean souls" may call tomfoolery, skulduggery, and, well we'll leave it there...

Of note, we will introduce and touch upon the overarching topics of study for this academic year: temperance, faith, and Victor Frankl's Man's Search for Meaning. We will also note the different activities we are planning.

Looking forward to seeing you!

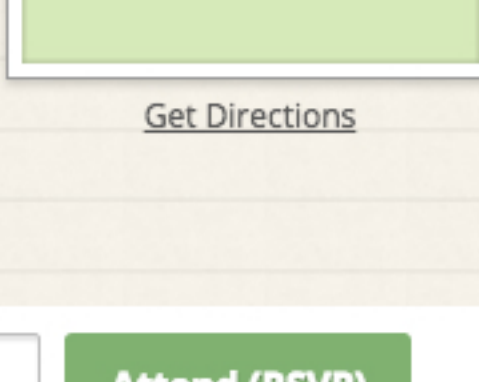

Mr Presberg

Copies of the materials will be provided.
Please RSVP--space will be limited

TINKERINGS IN TEMPERANCE AND FAITH...

...without temperentia the stream of the innermost human will-to-be would overflow destructively beyond all bounds, it would lose its direction and never reach the sea of perfection. Yet temperentia is not itself the stream. But it is the shore, the banks...

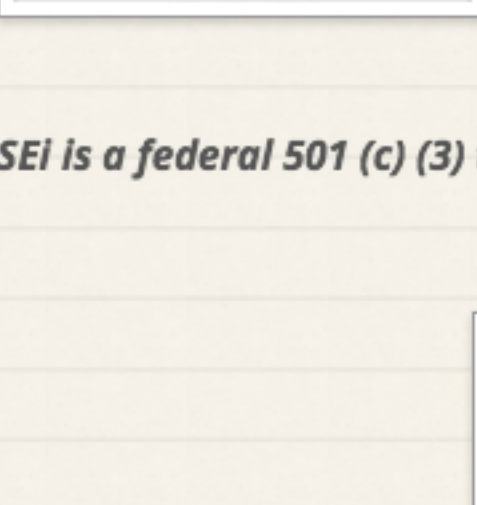

Unchaste abandon and the self-surrender of the soul to the world of sensuality paralyzes the primordial powers of the moral person: the ability to perceive, in silence, the call of reality, and to make, in the retreat of this silence, the decision appropriate to the concrete situation of concrete action.

Cheerfulness of heart is the infallible token that reveals the inner genuineness of discipline as selfless preservation of the self.

Is it good for man to believe? Would he be cheating himself of an essential wealth of existence if he were to refuse to believe?

You reached this far...above is apparently one of the few documented photos of Billy the Kid (not pointing)...thinking he was "allowed" to win this one...
